

The image displays three identical, vertically stacked writing templates. Each template is enclosed in a thick green border. In the top-left corner of each template, there is a brown and white football. The main body of each template is divided into three horizontal white writing sections. To the right of these sections is a vertical white column containing two horizontal lines, likely for a date or page number. A small graphic of a video game controller with yellow 'X' and 'O' buttons and a white arrow is positioned between the writing sections and the vertical column.